

Kevin Moore 2005
Hervey Bay Q.
Oil pastel, water colours, charcoal
64x63cm

ANZAC Cove

The art piece is about the landing at Gallipoli showing all the ships dropping off all the soldiers. This picture shows when dawn is breaking and the battle on ANZAC Cove is well on the way. Machine guns were pointing down from the hills at the ANZACs.

The ANZACs showed great bravery and courage during this battle. This is where the Australian soldier along with the New Zealand soldier became the famous ANZACs that we know today.

I made this artwork as a sign of respect. This picture made with a mixture of different materials.