How does the selection process work?

- All applications will be reviewed and assessed by a selection panel.
- Applicants who are not shortlisted for an interview will be advised by email once initial assessments are complete.
- Shortlisted applicants will proceed to an online panel interview.
- The panel will select the successful recipients.
- Once the online interviews have concluded, all shortlisted applicants will be advised by phone of the outcome of their application (successful or unsuccessful).
- The panel's decision is final – all applicants are acknowledged for their effort and participation.
- The selection process can take up to 6 weeks.

What makes a strong application?

- Applications that respond to all parts of each key question, stay within the time duration and give us a clear sense of who you are as a unique person and educator.
- Applications that are authentic and avoid generic answers (using AI for instance, tends to make applications sound the same way). Consider your point of difference.
- Applications that demonstrate that you can proudly represent Queensland as a teacher ambassador, showcasing professionalism, leadership, curiosity and a commitment to student learning and wellbeing.
- Your video response is an opportunity to highlight the communication skills essential for collaborating effectively with Global Engagement, your chaperone colleague, students and international stakeholders.

How should I respond to the key questions (video)?

- The key questions will help us learn more about you and understand your motivation for applying.
- The suggestions below are not a checklist to be completed but are a guide if you would like a starting point.

Question 1: Tell us about yourself. Why do you believe you would be a suitable participant? What attributes and skills do you bring to the role?

- Share who you are as a teacher – your values, motivation and what drives your interest in this opportunity.
- Explain how your teaching experience, leadership and interpersonal skills align with the responsibilities of a chaperone.
- Highlight key attributes such as communication, empathy, organisation and the ability to build trust with students and colleagues.

Question 2: Describe your connection to Australian war history and the Anzac Legacy. How has this influenced your teaching or involvement in commemorative activities, and how would participation in the Premier's Anzac Prize program strengthen your ability to share and promote this learning within your school and community?

- Share your connection to Australian war history or the Anzac Legacy. This may include personal interest, family connections, community involvement or experiences that have shaped your understanding of its significance.
- Highlight ways you have incorporated the Anzac Legacy into your professional practice or school community, such as classroom learning experiences, student activities, or involvement in school or community commemorations.
- Explain how participating in the Premier’s Anzac Prize program would deepen your understanding and strengthen your ability to share the Anzac Legacy with students, colleagues and the broader school community.

Question 3: How do you plan to foster a positive and supportive environment for the students you are travelling with, both in the lead up to the program and while overseas?

- Describe how you will create a safe, inclusive and encouraging environment, modelling cultural respect, open-mindedness and curiosity.
- Describe how you will build confidence and independence in students, and support them through challenges such as homesickness, cultural adjustment and group dynamics while travelling.
- Explain how you will guide students to respectfully engage with the historically significant places and stories of the Anzac Legacy, recognising that some experiences may prompt reflection or emotional responses.

How should I record my video?

Video: Responding to the key questions
(Up to 4 minutes duration)

- Record in portrait mode: Hold your device upright while recording.
- Keep it steady: Make sure your device stays still for the whole recording.
- Feature only you: The video should show only you speaking – no other people, images or backgrounds. You are the star, and we want to see you talking directly to the camera.
- State your name and the program you are applying for: Do this right at the beginning of your video.
- Record in parts if needed: If it is easier, record your answers in sections and edit them together before submitting.
- Use brief notes: You may use prompting notes, but do not read from a full script.
- Name your video: “LAST NAME, FIRST NAME - PROGRAM NAME”
- Send your video: Email your final video from your school email account to the Global Engagement team at Applications.GlobalEngagement@qed.qld.gov.au.

What happens if I am shortlisted for an interview?

- If you are shortlisted, a Global Engagement Project Officer will:
 - contact your supporting line manager, who will be requested to complete an endorsement form, verifying attributes including, but not limited to, professionalism, adaptability and intercultural awareness
 - invite you to attend an online interview with the selection panel.

What is the interview like?

- Each shortlisted applicant will have a 15-minute interview.
- We will ask for your permission to record the interview session.
- It is completely normal to feel nervous – most applicants do! The panel understands this, and nerves will not affect your interview outcome.

What happens if I am successful following the interview?

- If you are successful following the panel interview, you will be contacted by phone to share the exciting news.
- This process may take up to 10 business days as we await principal approval to support your selection.
- We ask that you keep this news confidential and share it only with close family until officially advised.
- Next steps: You will complete all necessary paperwork related to your participation in the program and be invited to a series of online information sessions that outline the next steps before your departure.

What happens if I am unsuccessful following the interview?

- If you are unsuccessful following the panel interview, you will be contacted by phone.
- This process may take up to 10 business days as we await principal endorsements to support chaperone selection.
- The application process is highly competitive and unfortunately, not all applicants can be successful. However, being shortlisted to participate in an interview is a significant achievement in itself.
- You will receive a Highly Commended Certificate to acknowledge your engagement in this process and the effort you have invested in your application.
- We encourage you to explore other opportunities on the Global Engagement website, or reapply next year if you are eligible.

What about my privacy?

- We take the collection of your personal information seriously.
- Below is a copy of the Privacy Statement that is included at the start of the Online Application Portal, before you fill out any information.

Privacy statement:

The Department of Education (the department), through Global Engagement team, within the Department of Education International, is collecting your personal information, including your name, residential address, email address, date of birth, school, principal name, gender, photograph, mobile number and video image. Sensitive personal information collected includes race and ethnicity, if you identify as LGBTI+, and health information, such as disability and medical information.

The purpose of this collection is for the administration and management of the application process and subsequent provision of the Premier's Anzac Prize. If you do not provide your personal information, we will be unable to process or review your application to be eligible for the Premier's Anzac Prize.

Your personal and sensitive information will be shared with insurance organisations, airlines, travel companies, tour operators, accommodation providers, international partner organisations and other external parties involved in providing services as part of the Premier's Anzac Prize, located in Australia and overseas. Please note, this will only occur if your application is successfully selected for the Premier's Anzac Prize.

Your personal information will be managed in accordance with the Information Privacy Act 2009 and will not be used or disclosed for another purpose without your consent or unless authorised or required by law.

Information about how individuals can access and amend their personal information held by the department, together with information about how individuals can make a privacy complaint is available at <https://qed.qld.gov.au/privacy>.
