

Specialist Disability Support in Schools Program

Fact Sheet for Schools

Purpose of the Specialist Disability Support in Schools (SDSS) Program

The Department of Education provides funding to approved organisations under the SDSS Program to support schools by delivering services to improve access to, and participation in, curriculum and the educational outcomes for eligible school-aged students with disability through:

- a) identification of barriers to access, participation and achievement; and
- b) provision of supports to enhance student attendance, participation and achievement in schooling.

Services provided by organisations under the SDSS Program are complementary services to those offered by the education sectors and are not intended to be a duplication of those services available in schools.

While SDSS organisations may approach a school to offer a service, SDSS Program services are only delivered at the written request of the school, based on the needs of the student to access and participate in the curriculum. The Principal, or delegate of the Principal, decides if assistance is required and requests the services of a SDSS organisation.

Student Privacy and Confidentiality

All SDSS organisations have a legally binding service agreement with the Department of Education, which requires the organisations to adhere to strict Disclosure of Confidential Information and Protection of Personal Information requirements when delivering a service. SDSS organisations must not disclose Personal Information without the Department of Education's prior written consent.

The collection of some student information is required on the SDSS School Request for Support Form, which is provided to schools by the relevant SDSS organisation. The request forms ask for certain student details and evidence of eligibility because there are student eligibility requirements that must be met to receive a service under this program.

SDSS funding is government funding, administered by the Department of Education, to SDSS organisations to deliver specialist education services. Therefore, evidence of eligibility is required to ensure the funds are being used appropriately to deliver supports to schools and students.

Under the terms of their service agreement with the Department of Education, SDSS organisations are required to report data and outcomes annually to the Department regarding where and how they have delivered services to schools. The organisations, must be able to demonstrate they are using the grant funding correctly and compliance requirements are being met. Any personal data collected by SDSS organisations must be retained within Australia to ensure that the data is protected under Australian privacy laws.

It is also common practice for SDSS organisations to conduct classroom observations, so they can observe the learning needs of the students and provide advice to schools regarding how strategies, adjustments and supports can work within the dynamics of the classroom.

Student Eligibility Requirements

To be eligible to receive a SDSS service, a student must be enrolled in a Queensland school and be identified in one of the following ways:

State schools	Students who were recorded in the latest submission of the Nationally consistent collection of data on school students with disability (NCCD) as receiving Substantial or Extensive adjustments; or Prep and new students to a state school recorded with Anticipated Adjustments at Substantial or Extensive, as submitted for Day 8.
Non-state schools	Students who have a current verification under the Education Adjustment Program (EAP).

Types of SDSS Service Provision

SDSS organisations are funded under service agreements with the Department of Education for three types of funding categories – School Support Services, Resource Centre Services and Specialised Equipment.

School Support Services	Funding for the provision of a range of professional services and consultation in schools for eligible students with disability. Services may include support services from educators, speech-language pathologists, occupational therapists, physiotherapists, orientation and mobility specialists, and psychologists.
Resource Centre Services	Funding to provide equipment, materials and resources to schools for the support of eligible students.
Specialised Equipment	Funding for specialised equipment is: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) To improve the equipment loan pools of organisations providing support services to students with disability to enhance access and participation in school; 2) For equipment that is complementary to the equipment that is available from the regionalised loan service; 3) For trial purposes at school; and/or 4) For short term equipment loans up to six months. Note: This funding may not be used for equipment for individuals or minor equipment and materials.

SDSS Organisations

Many of the supporting services are state-wide services, which means that all schools, including those in rural and remote locations, have the opportunity to access services from funded organisations to engage a specialist education support service.

How to request support from a SDSS organisation

Prior to requesting a SDSS service, schools should consider the needs of students in conjunction with any services already available to the school, such as school-based therapies. Should it be established that a complementary service is needed to improve the student's access to, and participation in, the curriculum, then a SDSS service can be requested.

Schools should make direct contact with a SDSS organisation to discuss service provision at their respective school. The Principal of the school, or delegate, decides if assistance is required and requests the service from a SDSS organisation by completing and signing a School Request for Support Form.

Difference between SDSS and NDIS

The SDSS program and the NDIS have two distinct purposes.

The SDSS program supports schools to enhance the learning outcomes for eligible students who require significant educational adjustments. The SDSS organisations are funded by the Department of Education and their services are engaged by schools.

NDIS services are focussed on supporting people with disability in their daily lives and do not include supports within schools to access the curriculum. NDIS funding is allocated to parents of students with disability under a NDIS Participant Plan, with parents directly engaging a provider.
